

Explanation of my code:

I created 3 class for each role. After I defined strings and integers for each class. I used to “extend” for taking inheritance for other classes. After that I created functions for each class. Functions get inputs from user and print them. For printing I used “scanner” for calling classes I used objects. At the end of my code I called my all functions to the main function.