First off all I take two input for calculation. After that I multiply first number with 2 and second number with three. I define first result as result 1 and second result as result 2. Finally ı define result 3 for sum of first two results.